THE BUSY SEASON: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, in the first two columns are given, for each city and town, first, the total number of establishments in all industries, and second, the number of establishments that stated the months which constituted their "busy season." In the twelve columns headed with the names of the months are figures which indicate the number of establishments reporting their busy season as occurring in the months specified. For instance, in the town of Provincetown there are 82 establishments of which 34 stated the months constituting their busy season. Of these 34 establishments 9 were busy in January, 9 in February, 17 in March, 20 in October, etc.]

BUILDING PLANT: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, a condensed classification has been made of the various kinds of buildings, etc., in which the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the Commonwealth were reported as being carried on. The classification of building plant covers not only entire business buildings such as factories, mills, works, and workshops, but parts of buildings such as cellars and vaults, floors, rooms, etc. In a number of cases the parties carrying on manufacturing or mechanical industries have "no shop," while others are located in barns and stables, dwelling houses, stores, on vessels or wharves, in yards, or are proprietors of foundries and forges, kilns, and quarries. Buildings not specified as to kind, houses (not dwelling-houses), and sheds are used for storage purposes or for carrying on in separate buildings various branches of manufacturing and mechanical industries.]

BUILDING PLANT: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, a condensed classification has been made of the various kinds of buildings, etc., in which the manufacturing and mechanical industries of the Commonwealth were reported as being carried on. The classification of building plant covers not only entire business buildings such as factories, mills, works, and workshops, but parts of buildings such as cellars and vaults, floors, rooms, etc. In a number of cases the parties carrying on manufacturing or mechanical industries have "no shop," while others are located in barns and stables, dwelling-houses, stores, on vessels or wharves, in yards, or are proprietors of foundries and forges, kilns, and quarries. Buildings (not specified as to kind), houses (not dwelling-houses), and sheds are used for storage purposes or for carrying on in separate buildings various branches of manufacturing and mechanical industries.]

MOTIVE POWER: BY TOWNS.

[In some respects, the statistics of motive power given in this presentation are incomplete. The reasons therefor are apparent. Those manufacturing and mechanical establishments having steam engines or boilers on their own premises made returns for the same, but those establishments using "hired power," naturally, were unable to make returns. In those cases where the parties supplying power were engaged in manufactures full returns were made, but in those cases where the parties furnishing power were engaged in trade, etc., or furnished power as a business, it is not certain that returns were made. Consequently, the steam power actually used in manufactures is undoubtedly greater than as given in this presentation. The number of persons running machinery by hand or foot power is probably largely understated. The number of establishments reporting the use of "hired power" is shown by towns in the second part of this presentation.]

VALUES OF HOME MANUFACTURED AND IMPORTED MACHINERY.

[In this presentation, the values given are cost values, even though the machinery may have deteriorated in value since its purchase. They are so divided as to show the respective values of machines of home and of foreign manufacture. Those towns making no return for machinery have been omitted from the presentation. The figures representing the value of imported machinery need not, necessarily, appear in both columns devoted to imported machinery. Machines of foreign manufacture may have been imported previous to the ten years ending June 30, 1885, or foreign machines so imported may have been destroyed by fire, become unfit for use, or may have been sold or exchanged for machinery of domestic manufacture.]

COMBUSTIBLE VALUES: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, the assessors' valuation of real property is not shown. Instead is given the combustible value, or the amount that would be claimed from an insurance company to replace the buildings, fixtures, stock on hand, etc., if destroyed by fire. The combustible values herein include the value of buildings used for manufacturing purposes, the value of fixtures, machinery, and implements and tools, the value of the average amount of stock on hand (raw and in process of manufacture), and the value of the average amount of manufactured goods on hand or completed work done.]

COMBUSTIBLE VALUES: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, the assessors' valuation of real property is not shown. Instead is given the combustible value, or the amount that would be claimed from an insurance company to replace the buildings, fixtures, stock on hand, etc., if destroyed by fire. The combustible values herein shown include the value of buildings used for manufacturing purposes, the value of fixtures, machinery, and implements and tools, the value of the average amount of stock on hand (raw and in process of manufacture), and the value of the average amount of manufactured goods on hand or completed work done.]

LOSSES BY FIRE: BY TOWNS.

[In this presentation, the cities and towns not reporting losses by fire, at any time since their present industries were established, have been omitted. It should be borne in mind, when considering the figures given, that the losses reported were all caused by fires in manufacturing and mechanical establishments, no returns having been made of losses by fire in dwelling-houses or shops and stores used for trade, etc.]
